

American Association of Petroleum Geologists Foundation Announces funding for Students and/or Faculty in Oklahoma State University's Geology and Geography Departments
For New Research Proposals through the AAPG-OSU GIS Consortium

Mission

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG) – Oklahoma State University (OSU) Geoscience and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) Consortium exists to create, accelerate and sustain digital peer-reviewed GIS products, carried out through OSU's Geology and Geography Departments and the AAPG Spatial Publications Standing Committee. The new research will have direct application to the search for and development of petroleum and energy-related mineral resources, and / or related to environmental geology or related economic issues.
